Guided Historic Tours

The stunningly preserved home of early Huntington Beach pioneers William & Mary Newland and their family. The 1898 Queen Anne style Victorian farmhouse remains a treasured part of our community, a vestige of our city's agricultural roots. Restored from its abandoned condition by the Historical Society in 1976, the Newland House Museum is now open to the public for tours - come see what life was like in 'Pacific City' more than a century ago!
