

THE UNTOLD WAR

History buffs and war enthusiasts are encouraged to listen on the line to the Untold Civil War Podcast, a fine series of programs featuring the great minds of the study of the ongoing conflict. Hear tales of camels and of submarines, of soldiers of fortune and adventures, of the famous regiments, and those whom have fallen into obscurity. All these discussions are most fascinating and are to be found absolutely free wherever podcasts are to be found.

THE BADGE MAKER

The exceptional and talented New Jersey proprietor Jos. Valicenti offers to make metal and hand-sewn Corps Badges, identification discs, tobacco pipes & accessories, Corps insignia rings, patriotic pet tags, camp hats, custom embroidery work, watch fobs and chains, and much more. Mr. Valicenti comes highly recommended by many estimable persons in both armies. The Federal Army has made great use of the Corps badge, an identifying insignia to differentiate those soldiers serving in different divisions and corps. They have become a great source of pride and camaraderie. What these badges represent to the wearer is worth more than any Astor or Vanderbilt combined could purchase. Contact him in the face book or on Civil War Corps Badges Dot Com.

J. J. NEWBERRY, TAILOR.

The famed New Jersey tailor & maker, James Jon Newberry, kindly offers his services for the fabrication of fine military & civilian goods for ready money. Professional tailoring, hatmaking, leatherwork et cetera. Replication of the finest fashions. By appointment only. Mr. Newberry is purportedly to be found in the main circle by his tent, underneath a tree.

DON JOLLEY, ARTIST

The eminent artist & architect Don Jolley of Arizona presents his fine paintings and sketches of the history of our nation from antiquity to the present time. Excellent portraits of Washington, Lincoln, battles, generals, and many fine regiments. Christmas cards and postcards. Mr. Jolley also has fine line of hand painted wooden toy soldiers and figures available.
